

The state of Indiana currently has an effective and much appreciated law governing telephone solicitation. I do not support any federal attempt to change a process the state has designed for the benefit for its citizens. It works, and we're grateful.